The Growth and Development of the Fixed Price List in American Numismatics

By Ken Lowe

Today's numismatic collector takes for granted COIN WORLD, THE NUMISMATIST, regular coin shows, BOWERS AND MERENA'S SPECIAL COIN LETTER, "slabs", the REDBOOK, PENNY-WISE, a seemingly endless number of high quality grand format auction catalogues, and a vast quantity of literature about numismatics, not to mention an industry involved in the commerce of numismatic literature.

Yet, when American numismatics was beginning, slavery was legal. The Civil War (or War between the States) had not yet occurred. For most Americans, St. Louis was considered to be the West. The Union-Pacific Railroad was still a score of years away from establishing a truly, although rudimentary coast-to-coat transportation link. Only the most adventurous people ever traveled more than two days from home. And the Gold Rush had begun only a decade before.

Thus, the numismatic fixed price list, which today collectors consider as common as a Big Mac, actually faced a lengthy and frequently unsuccessful period as a viable numismatic marketing method.

Organized numismatics in America began quite slowly and leisurely in the 1850's long after both academic and commercial numismatics were prospering in Europe. Numismatic literature in Europe goes back to the late 16th century. For example, the first numismatic work to be written in English was in 1692 by Obadiah Walker.

However, it was not until 1857 that the first numismatic society in the U.S. was formed - the Numismatic Society of Philadelphia [later the Numismatic and Antiquarian Society of Philadelphia]. A few months later in 1858 the American Numismatic Society in New York City was formed. Following soon after were the Boston Numismatic Society in 1860, New Haven in 1862, Rhode Island in 1864, New England Numismatic and Antiquarian Society in 1866, Essex County (New Jersey) Numismatic and Antiquarian Society in 1869, Vermont Numismatic Society in 1876, Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society in 1878, and the Numismatic and Archaeological Society of Baltimore in 1880. All of these had one thing in common; location. They were all in the so-called "Eastern Corridor".

The first successful numismatic society to be formed outside the "Eastern Corridor" was the Chicago Numismatic Society in 1880. Two other "non-eastern" societies attempted to organize, but both were unsuccessful, Buffalo in 1858, and Charleston, South Carolina in 1875.

The earliest days of commercial numismatics in the U.S. were recorded in E.J. Attinelli's 1876 work, NUMISGRAPHICS which gives a chronological listing with useful annotations of the auctions and fixed price lists (also books and other publications) issued in the America from 1765 onward. Attinelli records the earliest U.S. numismatic auction in 1828 (although at least two earlier records now exist), and the earliest recorded U.S. fixed price list in 1822 although no one today would categorize either as a true numismatic auction catalogue or fixed price list.

In essence, the nascent days of U.S. commercial numismatics were really in the mid to late 1850's. The earliest records showed early efforts both with fixed price lists and public auctions. Most business tended to be conducted by retail and private treaty sales generally by the prominent dealers in Philadelphia (Cogan & Haseltine), in New York City (with many sales held at Bangs), and also by some in Boston and Baltimore. Those dealers also conducted public auction sales with mail bids accepted. Generally, the other dealers who were present served as representatives for the mail bidders. Augustus Sage, John Curtis, and Alfred Robinson were the main issuers of fixed price lists. However, by the early 1860's the fixed price list (and Sage, Curtis, and Robinson) took a back seat to the auction catalogue as the primary means of selling coins.

By contrast, the fixed price list through the end of the century was a most infrequently, and generally unsuccessfully, used tool. There were only a few notable exceptions. In fact, with the preponderance of the collectors and dealers located in the East, there was little organized collector activity outside the east, precisely the kind of organized activity that one would need to conduct a business by mail order. The geographical limitation of American numismatics can be illustrated by Attinelli's listing of auctions. From 1828 through 1875 of the approximately 375 auctions which Attinelli listed, only 8 were conducted outside the so-called "Eastern Corridor": 6 conducted by S.G. Hubbard in Cincinnati between 1863 and 1867 and 2 by William Butters & Co. in Chicago, in 1864 & 1871. Thus commercial numismatics was nearly exclusively an eastern activity, and was conducted either by retail trade or by auction catalogue.

Those interested in pursuing numismatic business outside the East had two problems: supply and demand. From where could they get a steady supply of collector or rare coins to compete with the supply of the eastern dealers? Correspondingly, to whom could they sell their wares when the dealers in the East had better material? The answer and their success was dependent on the development of numismatics and numismatic demand in the rest of the country.

To show how concentrated the collector base was, the minutes of the Numismatic and Antiquarian Society of Philadelphia (under which name it began March 23, 1865) show that while it had dozens of members, it did not admit its first corresponding member from outside the east until I.A. Lapham of Wisconsin was accepted for membership in April 1866.

Another example of the eastern collector concentration was shown in the membership of the American Numismatic and Archaeological Society. In April 1870, the ANS' membership consisted of about 90 members in the New York area. Of the first 25 Corresponding Members outside New York City who joined from 1858 onward, only 1 was from outside the eastern corridor - J. Henry Applegate, Jr. of San Francisco, who joined in June 14, 1866. Three "non-corridor" members joined at the November 14, 1867 meeting: James H. Taylor of Charleston, South Carolina; Heman Ely of Elyria, Ohio; and Alfred Sandham, the famous Canadian numismatist, from Montreal. Not until 1868 was there a notable increase in non-eastern members: from St. Louis, Cincinnati, Dayton, Augusta (GA), Traverse City (MI), 2 members from New Orleans, and one from Bellevue (OH). Still only about 10 of the first 54 corresponding members who joined in ANS through April 1870 were from outside the traditional eastern numismatic centers.

The five volumes of Remy's FIXED PRICE LISTS & PREMIUM PAID FOR LISTS have focused a significant amount of attention on these early fixed price lists. Consequently because of Remy's work, numerous collectors have sought to collect these lists. Yet, no significant quantity of new lists have appeared. For example, Remy's 1988 Volume Listed 107 issuers of lists, though several were from the same people under different company names. In the five years since 1988 when Remy first issued Volume 1, despite much cooperation and communication from the major collectors of these lists, Remy has only been able to catalogue about 30 new issuers of fixed price lists and premium paid for lists.

It is worthwhile to notice that many of the significant numismatic dealers who conducted auction issued fixed price lists: S.H. & H. Chapman, Ed Cogan, Ed Frossard, S.K. Harzfeld, Capt. John Haseltine, Lyman Low, George Massamore, David Proskey, and W.E. Woodward.

Their lists, however, were only a minor and occasional part of their business. Each preferred the auction catalogue as a merchandising medium.

Also of note, several significant American numismatic personalities each issued a little known fixed price list: Lorenzo Abbey, of the famous 1799 "Abbey" cent offered in 1875 a single page PRICE LIST OF U.S. COPPER CENTS FOR SALE. Also in 1875, A. M. Smith, author of several important 19th century numismatic works, issued a single page "Buy-Sell" list. Finally, Dr. George Heath, founder of the A.N.A., also issued a fixed price list.

Eventually, the fixed price list as a commercial vehicle did achieve some success. But it would not be until the early 1890's. By that time, the reach of organized numismatics had extended beyond the east. There were several resons for this. Periodicals such as Ed. Frossard's NUMISMA and the AMERICAN JOURNAL OF NUMISMATICS had advertising, frequently of the classified type, from collectors and dealers outside the East. Eastern numismatists corresponded with friends, relatives, and others in the rest of the country attempting to find new sources of rare coins.

Still, quoting John Adams from UNITED STATES NUMISMATIC LITERATURE. Volume One: Nineteenth Century Auction Catalogs, "whereas collectors came to be dispersed, the coin trade, as so aptly symbolized by auction sales, remained centralized in the cities where it began". (p. 105).

Another source for names of non-eastern numismatic names began with the January 1, 1891 (Volume 3, No. 1) issue of THE NUMISMATIST, George Heath began the first of 26 serial articles "Our Numismatic Directory", a listing of "reliable names" with "addresses [that] have all been verified and can be relied upon". 859 names were listed in 26 serial directories through April 1893 (Volume 6, No. 4), many from outside the East. The first directory listed 17 names including those from Montreal; LaCrosse, Wisconsin; Muscatine, Iowa; Ravenna, Ohio; Port Hope Ontario (Joseph Hooper, of A.N.A. prominence); Pittsburgh: Memphis, Missouri (not Tennessee). Name number 22 in the January 15, 1891 issue was the first name listed from the west coast - Pasadena, California. Thus, American numismatic dealers finally had access to a more national market which was key to the success of the mail-order dealer who issued fixed price lists.

Still, what success the FPL has was largely accomplished through two dealers: John Walter Scott and Charles Steigerwalt.

Scott's successful philatelic business, in addition to his numismatic operation, gave him access to names throughout the country, and an advantage in marketing his coins, He founded the AMERICAN JOURNAL OF PHILATELY in 1872. Scott's COLLECTOR'S COIN JOURNAL, which ran from 1875 through 1888, also helped him to expand his reach. He conducted 331 auctions from 1870 onward of which 50 were numismatic, beginning in 1877. Scott was primarily a merchant, as opposed to a philatelist or numismatist. Consequently, selling quantities of collector coins by mail was more desirable to him than merely specializing in the occasional numismatic auction.

On the other hand, Steigerwalt was obligated to concentrate on the fixed price list by virtue of geography. Although Steigerwalt's Lancaster home is in eastern Pennsylvania, it was still well outside the New York - Boston commercial numismatic center. According to John Adams, in UNITED STATES NUMISMATIC LITERATURE. Volume one: Nineteenth Century Auction Catalogs, [Steigerwalt] was the first dealer to make extensive use of this merchandising form [the fixed price list]. publishing sixty-three numbered lists, twenty-five more that were dated but not numbered and another eight (at least) which were neither dated nor numbered." (p. 106).

Adams also notes that because Steigerwalt lived in Lancaster, Pennsylvania (outside of the eastern numismatic circle) he would have had greater success in buying than in acquiring major collections for auction. Additionally, Steigerwalt offered coins for sale at fixed prices in various of his periodicals between 1878 and 1909. These were THE COIN JOURNAL, STEIGERWALT'S COIN JOURNAL, NUMISMATIC NEWS, and THE CURIO.

Still, the person who was most responsible for the success of the fixed price list as a numismatic marketing tool was Benjamin Max Mehl. Yet this would not begin until the early years of the twentieth century. A legendary numismatic promoter and self-promoter, he issued fixed price lists beginning in 1904 in an endless variety of formats. Most notable were Mehl's numbered PRICE LISTS, MEHL'S COIN CIRCULAR, and MEHL'S COIN CHRONICLE.

In conclusion, a numismatic advertising medium which we all take for granted today was largely unsuccessful through the early years in which American numismatics grew and developed.

Finally, Remy Bourne has honored me by permitting me to write introductions for a number of his unparallelled numismatic reference works. Since Attinelli, whose primary interest was the numismatic auction catalogue, Remy is the first numismatic researcher and writer in over a century to devote a substantial amount of time, effort, and money in a serious cataloguing of fixed price lists and premium paid for lists. With this supplement to Volume 1, Remy has completed his trilogy of illustrated numismatic reference works; FIXED PRICE LISTS AND PREMIUM PAID FOR LISTS OF UNITED STATES COIN DEALERS (in five volumes and one supplement covering from 1822 through 1959); AMERICAN NUMISMATIC PERIODICALS from 1860 to 1960 (a two-volume set); and AMERICAN NUMISMATIC SALES AND INFORMATION LITERATURE. These were produced in limited quantities, much as Attinelli's NUMISGRAPHICS.

Remy has never maintained that or intended for any of his works to be complete or perfect. He has intended to create references that would be a starting place for those who wish to collect the numismatic literature about which he has written. His humility will not permit him to accept that his accomplishments are unsurpassed in the field of numimatic literature. Remy's works are the result of his desire to share his love for numismatic literature, and his perserverance in actually producing these unique works. It is also rather remarkable that all of Remy's books have been produced in little more than 5 years.

It is too soon to determine the effects of the numismatic legacy which Remy Bourne has left. I am fully confident that future numimatists will refer to his works eponymously. People will refer to various of his numismatic books as a "Bourne", as today we refer to a "Crosby" or a "Jenks". Yet, I do feel sorry for future numismatists for although they will know his many numismatic contributions, they will not be fortunate to know his friendship and good humor.

Introduction

In my introductions to Remy's previous volumes on Fixed Price Lists I have naturally endeavored to cover my chosen field of Paper Money as it pertains to Fixed Prices Lists of the appropriate period of each volume. With this volume it is time to tie it all together, hopefully in a way that will give not only a clear picture of the current state of the Fixed Price List medium, but also some hint of what the future holds in store.

Many economic factors contribute to the rise and fall of any market, and the mechanisms by which that market is conducted — numismatics, securities, gems, real estate, etc., are all affected by war, recession, population growth, interest rates, international economic competition, and countless other factors. When interest rates peaked at all-time highs in the early 1980's, investment money abandoned collectibles. As of this writing, interest rates are approaching the lowest point in a generation and the real estate market is the worst in decades, so not surprisingly, recent numismatic sales have shown record highs. The numismatic market has in fact seen many such swings in activity — the pre-World War I boom, the great decline from the 1920's through the 1940's, the resurgence in the 1950's, and steady growth through the 1970's. After the 1970's other factors enter the picture, and the numismatic market became far more turbulent. The growing restlessness for economic betterment, unparalleled technological advances and an increasingly unquenchable thirst for knowledge have dramatically altered the world in recent years, and have altered the numismatic market as well.

The obvious question is — what has this to do with the way the numismatic market is conducted in general, and with Fixed Pridce Lists in particular?

Traditionally the Fixed Price List has been the vehicle by which firms sell the vast majority of their lower priced merchandise as well as mid-range and somewhat better or more esoteric material. Sales of complete collections, higher priced "middle of the Red Book" material, and the more stellar properties have more often than not been through public auction. The economic factors above have had only a minor impact on the method of sales — in bad times fewer of the higher priced coins might sell, so one might see more price lists, and in good times not only would the higher priced material sell well, but there would also be more auction competition for lesser material as well.

Two fairly recent changes have combined to alter the expected scenario. One we touched upon in the introduction to Remy's last volume — the tremendous increase in specialization. Recent numismatic literature price lists from Stack's and Bowers have contained hundreds of new, recently published listings, the vast majority of them very highly specialized. In general, the more specialized a field, the few collectors, and lower the average price. (I refer to more esoteric specializations, not "specializing" in such main stream areas as Large Cents). The inherently higher costs of a public auction vs. a price list make the proper auctioning of such material economically unrealistic. Enter the Fixed Price List. The second recent change having a great impact is the technological growth of the last decade. When I started collecting, only the largest billion dollar corporations or universities had computers, and a high quality IBM typewriter cost as much as a SET of high quality Proof 3¢ Nickel pieces. Today a home computer with a laser printer can be had for the price of ONE Gem Proof 3¢ Nickel. With an estimated 90 to 100 million personal computers in use in this country today, and the price of laser printers droping to the three-figure level, the explosive increase in the number of Fixed Price Lists being printed is not surprising.

In summary, the prosperity of the numismatic market will continue to rise and fall with the vicissitudes of economics and politics, but in good times or bad, the relative importance of the Fixed Price List within the market will no doubt continue to increase. Remy's six-part opus on the numismatic Fixed Price List is a priceless, unique chronicle of what has blossomed into an important part of our hobby. As Remy himself fully expects, his series will, like other pioneering works, eventually be superseded by more complete detailed listings. But also like other pioneers, Remy has earned for himself the gratitude of all those who will come after him. Without the initial efforts of those like Attinelli, Crosby, Sage, and Bourne, the work of later researchers would be far more burdensome.

A recent (tongue in cheek) Coin World editorial on the world's first "slabbed" auction catalog appropriately reminded us that we should occasionally step back and remember that this is, after all, an enjoyable hobby, not just a business. So, even more than for his help to future researchers, we all owe a debt of gratitude to Remy for making our field more enjoyable. Thank you Remy!

This addenda contains 57 dealers of which 35 are new additions since the original publication of June 1, 1988. Their are 79 new illustrations of material.

One of the most significant fixed price lists in this addenda is that of Geo F. Heath from the Frank & Laurese Katen library. (Pages 55-56).

The earliest fixed price list is dated October 1858 on page 124C in the library of Ken Lowe.

Dan Hammelberg has contributed significantly to this addenda as has Barry Fox, Mark Auerbach and those previously mentioned above.

I would like to thank Martin Gengerke. Frank & Laurese Katen, Ken Lowe, Q. David Bowers and Pete Smith as well as the others mentioned who so kindly gave their time over the years to write the various introductions.

This has been a fun, learning, and therapeutic project all these years and I would like to thank all who have corresponded and sent material to be included.

A special thanks to: Michael and Kathy Bourne, Marlene Bourne, and to my helpmate and partner, Avis Bourne.

Good Collecting,

Remy Bourne

COINS,

FOR SALE BY

THOMAS W. DENIER,

SUCCESSOR TO T. W. DENIER

No. 37 Sheriff Street,

NEW YORK.

In presenting this Catalogue to the friends of Numismatics, all I ask is a careful examination of it. I am satisfied that every one will find his hobby."

I wish to buy rare American Cents, Half Cents, Colonials, Foreign Coins, etc., and will pay the highest market price for them.

Every coin sold by me is guaranteed to be genuine if not expressly otherwise stated.

Remittances of $2 and upwards should be sent by Post Office Order, or Registered Letter, to insure safe arrival, otherwise at sender's risk. All letters of inquiry should contain stamp to insure reply. No coins sent on approval. All coins not proving satisfactory will be exchanged or money refunded. Cash must accompany all orders. When odd change is required, U.S. Stamps of low denomination will be taken.

I PAY POSTAGE ON EVERY COIN I SELL.

With thanks for past favors, I pledge my best endeavors to merit a continuance of the patronage of the trade heretofore so liberally bestowed.

Respectfully Yours,

THOS. W. DENIER.

Coins and Medals,

ELECTROTYPES.

Electrotypes are the exact fac-similes of the original coins in silver, copper and bronze.

The workmanship is so skilfully executed that they cannot be fully appreciated until seen, and are calculated to deceive others than experts.

The original of most of these specimens mentioned in this list are so exceedingly rare that they can be obtained only at a great cost, and some of them not at any price.

No collection or cabinet of coins is complete without these electrotypes, for they not alone add greatly to the beauty of your collection, but also form a most interesting and instructive study, as many of their issues are intimately connected with the early history of our country.

These coins are all in a perfect condition, and a number of them have been taken from uncirculated originals.

Prices are so low that no dealer or collector can afford to be without them

In remitting send money order, registered letter or postal note.

An addition of twenty-five cents will be charged for all specimens ordered to be silver plated.

Address all orders plainly to

PREMIUM COINS.

Merchants and business men in all departments of trade, take in and pass out again many VALUABLE COINS every year. This they certainly would not do if they were aware that there was a premium on them.

Some of very recent date command a large advance; for instance, I pay for U. S. Silver Dollars, dates 1851, 1852 and 1853, $15.50 each, and for Half Dollar, date 1852, $2.75. I also pay as high as 30 cents for one date of the Nickel 5 Cent Pieces, and 60 cents for one of the Copper 2 Cent Pieces.

I pay HIGHER PRICES and buy more DIFFERENT DATES than any other coin dealer, having nearly 300 different dates on my list that I pay a premium on.

Send 13 one-cent stamps or 5 three-cent stamps for my book, "Premium American Silver and Copper Coins," giving prices paid by me for all the rare coins, present face value of all the Foreign Silver Coins, very valuable to those who take in many Foreign Coins to ascertain their correct value, making a neat and valuable little book for all Merchants to keep in their money drawers for handy reference, and will save you many a dollar.

If you do not wish to send for it, greatly oblige me by kindly handing this circular to some business man, or to one of your customers who you think would be interested, and accept thanks.

OUR CATALOGUE

We now place before you the new edition of our Catalogue with double the contents of the previous one. Our increased facilities for obtaining goods in our line enable us to make very large reductions to which we wish to draw your especial attention.

OUR MAIL FACILITIES.

Despite our position in the Western Outskirts of the United States, we are ready to compete with any and everybody for your patronage. The Southern Mail Route has served to place us in close communion with collectors of that district, while the decrease in time by the Northen Route has brought us to the very door of our Eastern friends. The delay in time need not therefore be urged and we can assure prompt replies to all favoring us with their orders.

OUR BUSINESS.

Our Business has been increasing constantly, and while we have been retaining our old customers we are daily adding new names to our ledger.

Our prices as well as our fairness in business has been the cause of our success. We hope to be favored with a trial order soon. Our correspondents see the advisability of purchasing from a reliable house. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

OUR AGENTS.

We have agents in nearly every large city in the Union who dispose of a considerable amount of stamps and coins for us. We desire a few more, to whom we will allow a good margin. Reference must be given.

ANCIENT AND MODERN COINS FOR SALE.

The subscriber is authorized to offer for sale one of the largest, if not the largest, private collections of Coins in the United States. Having traveled much over the world, and possessed unusual facilities for the purpose, the proprietor has been engaged forty years in making this collection, which has been the chief amusement of his past life; and he is now induced reluctantly to part with it, in consequence of declining health. He is desirous to sell it as a whole, being unwilling, if it can be avoided, that what has cost him so much labor as well as money, should be scattered. Either as a nucleus for a new collection, or as an addition to one already existing, it offers an opportunity seldom to be met with, and one that will no doubt be readily embraced.

For terms, application may be made to the subscriber personally, at No. 59 Pine street, Room No. 3, second floor, or by letter, addressed to Post Office Box No. 4,574, New-York City.

MASON'S

Coin Priced Catalogue

FOR 1868,

Showing Prices Paid by Coin Dealers for American and Foreign Coins, when in Good Condition.

IMPROVED AND CORRECTED SEMI-ANNUALLY

By E. Mason, Jr., Numismatist.

PRICE 25 CENTS.

PUBLISHED BY

MASON & WELLS,

Coin Dealers and Real Estate Agents,

NO. 50 NORTH TENTH STREET,

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Entered, according to the Act of Congress, in the year 1868, by MASON & WELLS, in the Clerk's office of the District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

Explanatory Preface.

Having established, in 1860, the first Coin Priced Catalogue ever issued in the United States, and the first to advertise for, and deal extensively in old and rare coins, we feel competent to undertake a little advice to our readers, which may save annoyance and expense.

1st—We purchase all kinds of coins when in good condition, paying according to condition.

2d—We want all dates of Cents, 1791 to 1814, (good).

3d—We want all dates of Cents, 1816 to 1856, when uncirculated only.

4th—We buy Half Cents of any date, in any condition.

5th—We buy Foreign and Colonial Coins, Medals, Continental Paper Money, Autographs, Relics, Books, &c.

6th—Never send Coins to us by Express, without first sending a description—name, date, number, metal and condition. If you have a fine coin of any kind, seal it securely in a letter, and send by mail: will then buy or return it. "Uncirculated" coins are those uninjured, unworn. "Proof" coins possess a mirror like surface.

WANTED, U. S. COPPER COINS.

CENTS.—All dates from 1793 to 1814 inclusive, command premiums, also 1821, 1823 and 1857. The highest premium will be paid for cents dated 1793, 1799 and 1804. (NICKEL CENTS dated 1856 command premium).

HALF CENTS.—All half cents are worth a small premium, and all coined previous to 1800, if in good condition, are the most valuable, and the following dates possess considerable value, viz: 1802, 1811, 1831, 1836, and all between 1840 and 1848, inclusive.

WANTED, FOREIGN COINS OF ALL COUNTRIES!

I have constantly for sale cheap, for cash, a full line of the above goods, (or will make exchanges). I have a remarkable fine lot of fossil wood of various colors from Southern Colorado.

As I am making a Special Collection of Mound Pipes and Hematite Relics, I would be glad to buy, or exchange any thing in my line for them. If you can refer me to any person having those articles, you will confer upon me a great favor.

☞ Goods sent on approval, and, if not satisfactory, you can return all or a part (at your own expense) and your money will be refunded, and no hard thoughts.

CONFEDERATE MEMORIAL.

Representing nothing on God's earth now,
And naught in the waters below it,
As a pledge of a nation that's dead and gone,
Keep it dear friend and show it.

Show it to those who will lend an ear
To the tale this paper can tell,
Of Liberty, borne of the patriot's dream,
Of the storm-cradled nation that fell.

Too poor to possess the precious ores,
And too much of a stranger to borrow,
We issued to-day our promises to pay,
And hoped to redeem on the morrow.

The days rolled on, and weeks became years,
But our coffers were empty still;
Coin was so rare that the Treasury quaked
If a dollar should fall in the till.

But the faith that was in us was strong indeed,
And our poverty well discerned,
And these little checks represented the pay
That our suffering volunteers earned.

We knew that it had hardly a value in gold,
Yet as gold our soldiers received it;
It gazed in our eyes with a promise to pay,
And our patriot soldiers believed it.

But our boys thought little of price or pay,
Or the bills that were over due;
We knew if it brought us bread to-day,
'Twas the best our poor country could do.

Keep it, it tells our history over,
From the birth of its dream to the last;
Modest and born of the Angel Hope,
Like the hope of success it passed.

The above inscription was written on the back of a $10.00 Confederate Note which was found on the person of a dead Confederate Soldier at the close of the war.

R. W. Mercer, of 147 Central Avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio, will mail $10.00 Note with the above verses and price list of Confederate Money, for 10 cents.

List of prices we pay for rare coins 3 cents.

CURRENT PRICE LIST.

Stevens & Company, 90 Randolph St., Chicago.

We do not have all these coins in stock, but keep most of them out of town collectors should send us their list of wants, and will try to obtain rarities when desired. We give our selling rates for those we have, and as nearly as we can ascertain, the market value of those not in stock. We have always a large assortment of Foreign Coins, &c. When coins are ordered by mail the expense of postage must be added, and all letters of enquiry should contain stamp for reply.
